BRADENTON, FL – Long-time community advocate and civic leader Glen Gibellina is proud to announce the official launch of his new website, designed to serve as a central resource for local news, policy transparency, and grassroots engagement. The digital rollout comes on the heels of a significant endorsement from Commissioner Bob McCann as a private individual signaling a surge of momentum for Gibellina's ongoing efforts to champion the voice of the taxpayer.

A Platform for the People

The newly activated website serves as more than just a campaign or personal portfolio; it is a high-transparency portal intended to bridge the gap between local government and the citizens it serves.

Visitors can expect:

Deep Dives into Local Policy: Clear breakdowns of complex zoning, housing, and fiscal issues.
Community Call-to-Action: Direct ways for residents to get involved in local decision-making.
Multimedia Updates: Regular content addressing the pressing issues facing the community.

The Power of the Endorsement

The recent endorsement by Commissioner Bob McCann as a private individual highlights Gibellina's reputation as a tireless researcher and advocate. Known for his "no-nonsense" approach to public commentary, Gibellina has spent years attending meetings, analyzing budgets, and pushing for accountability.

"Glen doesn't just show up; he does the homework that others won't," said Dr. Bob McCann. "His commitment to the truth and to the prosperity of our neighbors is why this platform is so vital for our community right now."

Statement from Glen Gibellina

"I've always believed that information is the most powerful tool a citizen can have," says Gibellina. "This website isn't about me—it's about providing our community with the facts they need to hold leadership accountable.
